

CreativeReview

Mmmm ... Dingbats | Advertising, design and visual culture | July 2012 | £6.50

Events & Exhibitions

Natural Selection

Dave White's new exhibition comprise a large scale installation of oil paintings, works on paper and limited editions exploring threatened animal species. "Natural Selection encompasses the beauty and magnificence of incredibly rare animals," says White. "The collection explores these dynamics through the violent, expressive movement and abstracted patination of oil paint and watercolour."

From June 22 until July 7.

*The Hospital Club Gallery,
24 Endell St, London,
WC2H 9HQ*

thehospitalclub.com

Jacob Hashimoto

Ronchini Gallery presents the first UK solo exhibition of artist Jacob Hashimoto. For this show, Hashimoto is building a new site-specific installation comprised of hundreds of small bamboo and paper kite elements. The installation investigates themes evidenced in his previous work as he continues to explore a fascination with the intersections of painting and sculpture, abstraction and landscape.

From June 29 until September 1.

*Ronchini Gallery,
22 Dering Street,*

*London W1S 1AN
ronchinigallery.com*

Non-Alphabetical Order

Art Sensus introduces Jan Maarten Voskuil to London. On display will be his latest series of paintings, 4 Squeezed Squares, Dynamic Monochromes and The Alphabet of Silly Colours. These bodies of work all deconstruct painting itself, in both a consistent and elaborate way. They rationally emphasise the formal aspects of colour, size and deformation, whilst embodying dynamism and sensuality.

*Until July 13.
ART SENSUS*

*7 Howick Place
London SW1P 1BP
artsensus.com*

Ink Moon

Heavily influenced by Los Angeles 'Cholo' style graffiti fused with the spiritual skills of Asian calligraphy, Usugrow's work often portrays opposing elements such as skulls and flowers, yin and yang and, of course, his palette of black and white.

*From June 22 until July 8
Stolen Space Gallery,
Dray Walk, The Old Truman
Brewery, 91 Brick Lane
London E1 6QL
stolenspace.com*